SCIENCE AND THE EVIDENCE FOR GOD

"Theories that were once adamantly thought by scientists to disprove the existence of an intelligent creator are slowly dissolving in light of new evidence Many contemporary scientists are starting to turn to faith. Recent statistics have shown that 66% of young scientists believe in God, with another 15% being agnostic and 13% being atheists. Something is happening in science. Scientists and atheists are starting to move towards faith as the evidence for an intelligent creator continues to emerge from astrophysics. Father Spitzer believes that God is starting to lift the veil of the origins of our universe.

Although our universe is 13.8 billion years old and expands at an ever-accelerating rate, we can deduce from physics that there is a beginning. Through understanding the four universal forces of our universe, we can begin to see that the odds of our universe existing are almost impossible to explain. The four universal constant forces are: Gravitational Force; Electromagnetic Force; Strong Nuclear Force; Weak Nuclear Force. Somehow, these forces were able to perfectly act together to produce the complex planet that we inhabit. But how is our universe perfectly constructed for life? Father Spitzer attributes the origin of our universe to fine-tuned coincidences.

The odds are against our universe's low entropy. Entropy refers to the second law of thermodynamics, which states that whenever work is done, a physical system moves from order to disorder. Meaning that since the Big Bang, the universe has been expanding and becoming progressively disordered as it grows higher in entropy. Yet, somehow, our universe was able to have low enough entropy to support life.

When we examine the odds of our universe's low entropy, it is the same odds as a monkey producing the entire Shakespearean corpus by randomly tapping the keys of a typewriter on the first try. The possibility of this occurring can be signified by one in a billion, trillion, trillion, trillion chance. Thus, the order of our universe is very unusual. It is almost impossible to attribute to pure chance. If any of the four universal constant forces were even a slight percent higher, it would be impossible for life to exist.

The only possible explanations for the low entropy of our universe are: an infinite, eternal multiverse. An exceedingly intelligent, transcendent creator. Although some theories, like the Oscillating Universe Theory and String Theory, attempt to validate the claim that there can be an infinite, eternal multiverse, the Borde-Guth-Vilenkin Proof demonstrated that all inflationary multiverses must have a beginning. Meaning all universes MUST have a beginning.

Father Spitzer concludes: If there is a universe, it would have to have a beginning. If there is a multiverse, it would generate only a small number of bubble universes, most of which are like our own. Such a small number of bubble universes could not possibly explain the fine-tuning of our universe, whose odds are close to impossible. Therefore, it is highly likely that our universe or multiverse has a beginning and that the fine-tuning for life in our universe is explicable only by an exceedingly intelligent, transcendent creator.

Throughout Father Spitzer's exploration of cosmology and evidence for God, he demonstrates that science is beginning to point more to the possibility of a transcendent creator with each passing day. The scientific landscape is undoubtedly changing, and scientists are beginning to turn towards faith as capable of answering some of the most puzzling cosmological questions.

"Scientists unshackled themselves from the domain of superstition, and they climbed and ascended the mountains of knowledge with a strictly empirical, mathematical methodology, got to the final precipice, pulled themselves over, and found a band of theologians there, awaiting them for centuries," says Fr. Spitzer.

SAINT OF THE WEEK: ST. PAUL OF THE CROSS

October 20: He was a Priest and founder of the Passionists who dedicated his life to preaching the love of God revealed through the Passion of Christ. His example teaches us to remain close Christ Crucified, especially in suffering, and discover there the depth of God's love.

OUR PARISH HERITAGE

A JUBILEE OF GRATITUDE:
125 YEARS OF FAITH

As the Catholic community continued to grow, it needed a home of its own.

In 1888, Fr. Thomas McGuire built a small church in Oakdale dedicated to St. Mary's.

For the first time, local Catholics had a church that visibly marked their presence in the community.

That first church was modest, but it represented something much larger: a people putting down roots, creating a spiritual home, and preparing the way for the parish that would officially be established fourteen years later.

1888 A small church dedicated to St. Mary's is built in Oakdale

Every Sunday, Christ invites us to listen to His Word and receive His Body and Blood in the Holy Eucharist—the true food that nourishes us for eternal life. Come to Mass every Sunday!

This year is the 100th anniversary of World Mission Sunday, started by Pope Pius XI. In 1926 as a day for the whole church to pray to the Harvest Master for missionaries and those to whom they are trying to bring the Gospel, as well as to take up a collection to assist in their work. Over the years the church in the United States has grown more generous through World Mission Sunday supporting missionary work in other countries. The Holy Father asks all Catholics to be true missionaries and give with a generous heart for this Sunday's second collection.

We love having you as a part of our Flock!

“YOU SHALL NOT KILL” — RESPECT LIFE MONTH

This commandment is not a political statement, a personal opinion, or something invented by the Church. It is God's Word, revealed to humanity. Human life is sacred because it comes from God. He alone is the Lord of life, from its beginning to its natural end. During this Respect Life Month, as Catholics and sons and daughters of the Most High God, let us renew our commitment to defend the sanctity and dignity of every human life.

THE DRIVER'S TEN COMMANDMENTS

In 2007, the Vatican published Guidelines for the Pastoral Care of the Road, reminding us that our Christian responsibility extends even to the way we drive. These "Ten Commandments for Drivers" encourage respect for human life, prudence, charity, and responsibility on the road.

1. You shall not kill: Avoid speeding and reckless behavior that puts human life at risk.
2. An instrument of communion: The road should bring people together, not become a cause of death or harm.
3. Courtesy and prudence: Courtesy, uprightness, and prudence help us deal with unexpected situations on the road.
4. Charity and assistance: Help your neighbor in need, especially victims of accidents.
5. Not an expression of power: A car should not become an expression of power, domination, or an occasion of sin.
6. Encourage others with charity: Do not allow or encourage someone to drive when they are not in a suitable condition to do so.
7. Support families: Show support and compassion to the families of accident victims.
8. Reconciliation: Encourage reconciliation and forgiveness between those responsible for accidents and their victims.
9. Protect the vulnerable: Take special care of those who are most vulnerable on the road.
10. Be responsible for others: Remember that your actions behind the wheel affect the safety and lives of others.

LOS DIEZ MANDAMIENTOS DEL CONDUCTOR

En 2007, el Vaticano publicó las Orientaciones para la pastoral de la carretera-calle, recordándonos que nuestra responsabilidad cristiana se extiende también a nuestra manera de conducir. Esto nos invitan a respetar la vida humana y a conducir con prudencia, caridad y responsabilidad.

1. No matarás: Evita la velocidad y la imprudencia que pongan en riesgo la vida.
2. Instrumento de comunión: La carretera debe unir a las personas y no causar daño mortal.
3. Cortesía y prudencia: Son herramientas que nos ayudan a afrontar los imprevistos en la vía.
4. Caridad y ayuda: Ayuda al prójimo necesitado, especialmente a las víctimas de accidentes.
5. No al poder ni al dominio: El automóvil no debe convertirse en una expresión de poder, dominio o una ocasión de pecado.
6. Convence con caridad: Evita que quienes no estén en condiciones adecuadas conduzcan.
7. Apoya a las familias: Brinda apoyo y compasión a las familias de las víctimas de accidentes.
8. Reconciliación: Promueve la reconciliación y el perdón entre los responsables de accidentes y sus víctimas.
9. Protege al más vulnerable: Cuida especialmente a quienes se encuentran en situación de mayor vulnerabilidad en la carretera.
10. Sé responsable de los demás: Recuerda que tus acciones al volante afectan la seguridad y la vida de otras personas.

La ciencia y las pruebas de la existencia de Dios

“Teorías que en su día los científicos consideraban pruebas irrefutables contra la existencia de un creador inteligente se están desmoronando lentamente a la luz de nuevas evidencias. Muchos científicos contemporáneos están empezando a acercarse a la fe. Estadísticas recientes indican que el 66 % de los científicos jóvenes cree en Dios, mientras que un 15 % se declara agnóstico y un 13 %, ateo. Algo está sucediendo en el ámbito científico: tanto científicos como ateos comienzan a orientarse hacia la fe a medida que la astrofísica aporta nuevas pruebas de un creador inteligente. El padre Spitzer considera que Dios está empezando a desvelar el misterio del origen de nuestro universo. Aunque nuestro universo tiene 13.800 millones de años de antigüedad y se expande a un ritmo cada vez mayor, la física nos permite deducir que tuvo un comienzo. Al comprender las cuatro fuerzas fundamentales del universo, empezamos a percibir que las probabilidades de su existencia son casi imposibles de explicar. Estas cuatro fuerzas constantes son: la fuerza gravitatoria, la fuerza electromagnética, la fuerza nuclear fuerte y la fuerza nuclear débil. De algún modo, estas fuerzas actuaron en perfecta armonía para dar lugar al complejo planeta que habitamos. Pero ¿cómo es posible que nuestro universo esté perfectamente diseñado para albergar vida? El padre Spitzer atribuye el origen del universo a una serie de coincidencias de una precisión asombrosa.

Las probabilidades juegan en contra de la baja entropía de nuestro universo. El concepto de entropía se relaciona con la segunda ley de la termodinámica, la cual establece que, siempre que se realiza un trabajo, un sistema físico pasa del orden al desorden. Esto significa que, desde el Big Bang, el universo se ha estado expandiendo y volviéndose progresivamente más desordenado a medida que aumenta su entropía. Sin embargo, de alguna manera, nuestro universo logró mantener una entropía lo suficientemente baja como para permitir la vida. Si analizamos las probabilidades de que nuestro universo presente una entropía tan baja, veremos que equivalen a las de que un mono escriba toda la obra de Shakespeare al aporrear aleatoriamente las teclas de una máquina de escribir, y que lo consiga al primer intento. La posibilidad de... La probabilidad de que esto ocurra es de una entre mil millones de billones de billones de billones. Por tanto, el orden de nuestro universo es sumamente inusual; resulta casi imposible atribuirlo al puro azar. Si cualquiera de las cuatro fuerzas fundamentales del universo fuera siquiera un pequeño porcentaje mayor, la vida sería imposible. Las únicas explicaciones posibles para la baja entropía de nuestro universo son: un multiverso infinito y eterno, o bien un creador trascendente de inteligencia suprema. Aunque algunas teorías —como la del universo oscilante y la teoría de cuerdas— intentan validar la idea de un multiverso infinito y eterno, la demostración de Borde-Guth-Vilenkin probó que todos los multiversos inflacionarios deben tener un comienzo. Esto implica que todos los universos deben tener un inicio. El padre Spitzer concluye: si existe un universo, este debe tener un comienzo. Si existe un multiverso, este generaría únicamente un número reducido de universos burbuja, la mayoría de los cuales serían similares al nuestro. Un número tan reducido de universos burbuja no podría explicar el ajuste fino de nuestro universo, cuya probabilidad es prácticamente nula. Por consiguiente, es muy probable que nuestro universo —o multiverso— tenga un comienzo y que el ajuste fino que permite la vida en nuestro universo solo pueda explicarse mediante la existencia de un creador trascendente de inteligencia suprema. A lo largo de su análisis sobre cosmología y las pruebas de la existencia de Dios, el padre Spitzer demuestra que la ciencia apunta cada vez más hacia la posibilidad de un creador trascendente. El panorama científico está cambiando indudablemente, y “los científicos empiezan a considerar la fe como una vía capaz de responder a algunas de las cuestiones cosmológicas más desconcertantes.”
